Engr. Ermie M. Bacarra
Chief, HRID
PCASTRD, DOST

Dear Engr. Bacarra,

I am strongly endorsing the application of Prof. Wendell Q. Campano in the PhD (Statistics) scholarship of PCASTRD. He worked under my supervision for his MS thesis on robust estimation procedures in time series models. A paper we co-authored entitled Robust Estimation of A Time Series Model with Structural Change is now forthcoming in the Journal of Computational Statistics and Simulation, an ISI-Indexed journal. I believe he is capable of completing the PhD program within the timelines set in our curriculum.

Prof. Campano was hired as Instructor in the School of Statistics in June 2006 and soon after he completed the MS program in 2008 was promoted as Assistant Professor. Currently, we are waiting for the final printed copy of the above paper to award Prof. Campano his tenure to the University. The expertise that Prof. Campano will achieve in the PhD program will have a significant impact in asserting the expertise of the School of Statistics in the area of computational statistics that we are now generating recognition in the international community. His possible work in statistical theory (volatility in time series) will have potential applications in the analysis of weather anomalies related to the issue of climate change.

I don't know of any criminal/administrative charges against Prof. Campano. The School of Statistics is also willing to release him from duties and responsibilities, in fact, we already allowed him to go on leave with pay since June 2010.

Sincerely Yours,

Erniel B. Barrios

Dear Engr. Bacarra,

It is my pleasure to recommend Prof. Wendell Q. Campano in the PhD (Statistics) scholarship of PCASTRD. He worked under my supervision for his MS thesis on robust estimation procedures in time series models. I believe that there are still many open problems left after his thesis that he can work on for his PhD dissertation later. Part of his thesis was presented at the Joint Meeting of the 4th World Conference of the International Association for Statistical Computing (IASC) and the 6th Conference of the Asian Regional Section of the IASC on Computational Statistics and Data Analysis on December 5-8, 2008 in Yokohama, Japan, an important meeting of computational statisticians in the world. Also, a paper we co-authored entitled Robust Estimation of A Time Series Model with Structural Change is now forthcoming in the Journal of Computational Statistics and Simulation, an ISI-Indexed journal. I believe he is capable of completing the PhD program within the timelines set in our curriculum.

As the head of sending institution, the expertise that Prof. Campano will achieve in the PhD program will have a significant impact in asserting the expertise of the School of Statistics in the area of computational statistics that we are now generating recognition in the international community. I will advise him to take cognates in computer science to further develop the methods we have developed so far in this area. In real-life, his work will have applications in analyzing financial risks, modeling in time of crisis (financial crisis, oil volatility, government transition, etc), or even in sales modeling during stiff competition.

Sincerely Yours,

Dear Engr. Bacarra,

My warmest greetings to you.

This is to recommend Mr. Wendell Campano on his application for scholarship from your institution.

Mr Campano has been my student in several classes in his MS Statistics program and I can easily say that is one the top students not only in my classes but in others as well. He has the needed qualifications in terms of analytical and mathematical skills to finish a doctorate program in Statistics. He also has initiative, independence, and perseverance which are essential in pursuing a doctorate degree.

Being a PCASTRD scholar myself, I am confident that Mr. Campano, with the help of the applied-for scholarship, will not only finish his PhD program, but also serve his country adequately after he gets the degree.

Thank you very much.

We would like to inform you that we are allowing you to go on extension for the second semester of SY 2014-2015 to enable you to work on your thesis and finish the M.S. degree. However, the extension period will be without the usual financial privileges (stipend, book allowance, tuition & other school fees) except for the thesis allowance. Please note that succeeding requests for extension will depend on the progress of your research work. A maximum of one-year extension may be allowed for justifiable reasons. Thus, you are required to submit a progress report at the end of the second semester and registration form for the said semester of SY 2014-2015.

Furthermore, we wish to remind you that per policy, a scholar who is not able to complete his/her degree within the specified duration of scholarship shall be required to refund the total financial assistance received with 12% interest.

We expect that you will diligently work on your thesis towards the successful completion your M.S. program.

Please be guided accordingly.

PCIEERD, Department of Science and Technology

Dear Dr. Guevara,

I am currently on my 4th semester under the PCIEERD scholarship program studying for a Master of Science degree in Statistics at the University of the Philippines Diliman. Currently, I have completed 24 out of 38 units of my program (GWA: 1.125) and am enrolled for 10 units during this semester. Following your response to my correspondence last May 24, 2014, I have enrolled my thesis and will be defending my proposal on September 17, 2014.

I have attached my program of study to this correspondence. As I had communicated in an earlier correspondence (May 28, 2013), an unavoidable consequence of my having started my program during the second semester of 2012-2013 was that I was unable to take core subjects for the program during that semester because those subjects were not offered at that time. These subjects were prerequisites to succeeding subjects, which were in turn prerequisites to subjects leading up to the end of the program. As a result, my expected graduation in the program will be delayed to the second semester of 2014-2015. I had to start the program on the second semester because the results for the scholarship were released late and I had already accepted teaching and research responsibilities for the first semester of 2012-2013 by the time that it was confirmed that I was accepted for the scholarship. Thus, I had no choice but to defer the scholarship to the second semester.

In line with this, I would like to request for an extension of my scholarship by one semester. I would like to appeal to your good office to grant this extension on the basis of it not being due to any failure on my part to fulfill my obligations in my scholarship contract but rather due to a technicality in the program for students who start it during the second semester. Furthermore, the subjects that I will be taking on this last semester (Stat 234 and Stat 290 Part 2), are included in my original program of study and are subjects that I will be taking for the first time. Thus, I believe that they should still be funded by the scholarship.

I hope for your kind consideration with regard to this matter. Thank you.

Respectfully yours,

Mark Louie Ramos

Engr. Ermie M. Bacarra
Chief, Human Resources and Institution Development Division
Philippine Council for Industry, Energy, and Emerging Technology Research and Development

Dear Engr. Bacarra,

I have just enrolled my first semester as a DOST-PCIEERD scholar at the University of the Philippines under the M.S. Statistics program. In line with this, I have attached my Enrollment Form 5 for reimbursement of tuition costs.

After undergoing academic advising with Prof. Erniel B. Barrios, Ph.D., dean of the School of Statistics at the University of the Philippines, I was informed that I would not be able to complete the entire program within 2 years because of my having entered the program during the second semester. As explained by Dean Barrios, the program has 5 core subjects that need to be taken in succession across 4 semesters. Since the first 2 of those subjects (Stat 230 and Stat 231) are only offered during the first semester, it will take me a total of 5 semesters (2.5 school years) to finish the program. In relation to this, I would like to request for a revision of the scholarship contract reflecting the said changes.

Also, I have attached the program of study that was prescribed to me by Dean Barrios during the advising. This present program of study includes 47 units, but only 38 units are required. According to Dean Barrios, I am only required to take 12 units of electives, and may choose to not take the excess of 9 units of electives. I would like to ask your advice with regard to this matter. I would prefer not to take the excess units anymore so that I can begin working on my thesis as soon as possible. According to Dean Barrios, I can begin looking for an adviser and developing a topic as early as next semester.

I hope for your kind consideration and counsel with regard to these matters. I am very happy to be able to begin my graduate studies in Statistics with the generous aid of your institution. Thank you.

Respectfully yours,

Mark Louie F. Ramos
DOST-PCIEERD Scholar

Dear Executive Director Yumul,

I would like to inform your good office that the INC grade that I received for STAT 223 does not represent a failing mark. The grades were just put on hold in order to allow the entire class to revise our respective case studies. I have since completed the revisions to my case study and have been informed by our professor in the subject, Prof. Genelyn Sarte that my current status in the subject is passing, although the exact grade cannot be posted until the start of the first semester.

Respectfully yours,

Graduate Director
School of Statistics, University of the Philippines

Dear Director Magadia,

I applied for the Master of Science in Statistics program at your institution for the 1st semester of School Year 2012-2013. I was informed when I called the office of the School of Statistics sometime in April, 2012 that I was accepted to the program, but that an official letter of acceptance would not be released until the middle of May. Unfortunately, I could not secure a leave of absence from the university that I am teaching at without a letter of acceptance. As such, I am not able to proceed with my enrollment for the 1st semester of 2012-2013. In line with this, I would like to request for the deferment of my enrollment under the same program to the 2nd semester of 2012-2013. I would also like to request for a copy of a letter of acceptance to the program for the 2nd semester of 2012-2013, as I need this in order to process my leave of absence at my place of work.

I hope for your kind consideration with regard to these matters. Thank you.

Respectfully yours,

Mark Louie Ramos, MMathEd.
